

I live in Elkhart, Indiana, I am currently on the Indiana DO NOT CALL list and have been for several years. It has worked great. I was notified by the Indiana Attorney General that the Consumer Bankers Association has asked the FCC to do away with the DO NOT CALL list so they can call everyone during dinner.

I am against any changes to the current system. It works great. If I need a bank, I know how to use a telephone book to look up a bank. I do not want any bank calling me at home to drum up business. I should have the right to my privacy. I know the Bankers Association has a lot more money to lobby than I do, but I hope the FCC also listens to individuals.

Thanks,
